Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 13-15 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

The prior art made of record and considered pertinent to the applicant's disclosure does not teach or suggest the claimed limitations having a dummy resistance adding circuit for selectively connecting a resistance portion in series with one of said first and second data lines that is electrically coupled to said dummy memory cell, said resistance portion having an electric resistance value smaller than a difference between said first and second electric resistance values, in combination with the remaining claimed limitations.
